

APPENDIX

Appendix Table 1. Codes used in the study.

1. Rules for selecting motor vehicle mechanics:

- If the occupational information is based on the 1970 Census, eligible subjects must have industrial code = 384 and occupational code = 364.
- If the occupational information is based on the DB93, eligible subjects must have code = 50.20.10.
- If the occupational information is based on the DB03, eligible subjects must have code = 50.20.10.
- If the occupational information is based on the DB07, eligible subjects must have code = 45.20.10.
- If the occupational information is based on the DSE77, eligible subjects must have code = 95.131.
- If the occupational information is based on the DISCO88, eligible subjects must have code = 7231. When possible, we deleted subjects whose job title was 'Cykelsmed' because they are bicycle mechanics. All other people with this code were selected.
- If the occupational information is based on the DISCO08, eligible subjects must have code = 723110 or 723120

Documentation of the coding systems and codes is below

FOB 1970 – fagogerhverv

(ERHVERVSKODE) Industrial code used in the 1970 Population Census 1970 .

2. Rules for selecting comparison workers

Aim: Identify a comparison population of persons not occupationally exposed to asbestos based on occupation title/code.

Part A: Follow the exposure characterization presented in: Hansen ES. Mortality of auto mechanics. A ten-year follow-up. Scand J Work Environ Health 1989;15:43-6. The following occupations were selected as asbestos-unexposed by Hansen in 1989:

- Carpenter
- Electrician
- Instrument maker
- Dairyman
- Upholsterer
- Glazier

We do not agree that carpenters and electricians are not potentially asbestos exposed. Carpenters and electricians are therefore excluded as eligible comparators in our study. Instead, additional comparators are identified in Part B.

The occupation / industry codes for selecting Part A subjects are presented below, based on the code source.
